

Taste of Spain

International exhibitors at the show offered visitors a virtual taste tour around the world and Flavours of Spain in particular shone out with a total of five of its products winning Great Taste Awards this year. The company's sea urchin caviar (pictured) received a one star grade, as did two of its Protected Denomination of Origin (PDO) extra virgin olive oils, while two stars went to its organic dark chocolate truffles with cinnamon. The Great Taste Awards' highest grading of three stars was given to its beech smoked mackerel in olive oil.

Flavours of Spain offers a wide range of artisan foods sourced from small, family run firms in northern Spain that use traditional and ecologically sound production methods. It includes seaweed products used by Ferran Adria of El Bulli as well as limited production Spanish wines, all of which have PDO status. Director Ana Gomez says: "Winning five Great Taste Awards is a wonderful achievement for everyone involved. Our suppliers have been winemaking and cooking regional foods for generations. Their passionate belief in what they do is what makes our products special." For more information visit www.flavoursofspain.co.uk
